JULY 2025

It's pretty lovely. There are places to put a blanket, but less spots in the shade. That said, there is a shaded pavilion and some shaded tables with cell phone chargers. It gets busy, but I have never thought it was too crowded for our kids.

There is a concession stand? Did not know that. We take our own chairs and a small beach umbrella. If you don't need to be within eye shot of your kids, the covered pavilion is nice. We also take water guns, toys for them to play with. If you have small ones there is a little place on one side that is shaded and has little canal ways for the water to flow and put small boats or balls in for them to chase. And as stated before, we have never felt over crowded when we go.

We love the splash pad! We were just there yesterday evening with our almost 3 yr old. There are spots to lay a blanket down and they have some chairs available now as well. Shade is limited as stated above but plenty of room under the pavilion. I know they have some ice cream treats, mac n cheese, pizza and snacky stuff at the concession stand.
